Just Embrace

the Warmth

The first time I took a bikram yoga class I thought I was going to pass out. Peer pressure is a helluva drug, man. I had a Groupon and the next thing I knew I was doing downward facing dog in a room that was heated to 105F. I was fairly certain I was going to throw up, black out, or have a stroke. Luckily, neither happened, and I lived to see another day. But I was by no means ready to sign up for the yoga lifestyle. Fast-forward two years and I'm doing the bird of paradise pose and the heat is like a warm hug that has fully enveloped me. I have found my happy place.

Walking into Charm City Yoga (7 Allegheny Ave, Towson, 21204) for their bikram yoga class immediately calms me. I know that for the next 90 minutes I will no longer be able to think, dwell, or ruminate on any of the multitude of trivial things that cloud my brain on a daily basis. This by no means is supposed to signify my deep spiritual shift into the calming oceans of the yoga mindset. I do, however, really like getting bendy. □
